[...] Prohibited Actions in the Database

Any actions not explicitly permitted in this License Agreement with respect to the Database are hereby prohibited. This shall include (Without, however, derogating from the aforesaid) that you are not to copy, reproduce, distribute, market, translate, reengineer, decompile and/or disassemble, adapt, recompile, create any development, change or derivation of the Software, harm, distort or change the Software and/or the Database, remove any notice regarding copyright in the Software from the Designated Hardware or from the Software Package, grant any user's rights or sub-licenses or perform any action the results of which would cause injury to the Publisher's copyright in the Database or the awarding of rights in the Database to any third party whomsoever. The aforesaid does not exhaust the actions prohibited in the Database Remember: thousands of work hours and great effort were invested in the development of the Software, assembly of the contents and creation of the Database. The Database is, by law, the equivalent of a book, picture or other work of art. Actions that are prohibited with respect to those creations are prohibited with respect to the Database as well. [...]
